Kangaroo Island Sample Itinerary 15th – 20th November 2010

Day 1 – Monday 15th November

Group meets at Adelaide airport for departure at 12noon.

We drive out of Adelaide through McLaren Vale and some pretty coastline to the ferry at Cape Jervis, stopping for late lunch at a lovely little café in Yankalilla that serves great sandwiches, coffee and tea and divine scones and jam.

The ferry gives you that marvellous leaving the rat race feeling. On the island we drive to Emu Bay with its long sweep of beach and beach houses that you'll stay in. We'll meet our chef/guide Sue Pearson, have a nice glass of KI wine and settle in for a good dinner with some great island produce and hear a bit about the island and its producers from top local chef and food and wine expert Justin Harmen.

Day 2 – Tuesday 16th November

You may want to start the day walking on the white sand beach at your doorstep.

Breakfast at your own beach house with a range of golden-yolked famous Kangaroo island eggs, Barossa bacon, great local KI bread, good coffee and tea and a range of cereals, island yoghurt and honey provided.

9.30 depart to visit one of the amazing new aquaculture industries – abalone. The cool clear waters off the island are pumped into a series of ponds to raise these prized sea-creatures.

We then head to clever local foodie Kate Sumner who will do a demonstration of her sought-after Ducker chicken at the beautifully named establishment Happiness at Chapman River. She makes a range of pickles and chutneys. You can join her to make some fresh dukkah (aromatic spices, seeds and nuts) that goes so well with the local olive oil.

We then drive to one of Sue's great "finds" on Kangaroo Island – her samphire spot – this is the lovely sea vegetable we featured on Food Lovers Guide to Australia that is marvellous when blanched quickly and served with seafood or in salads. We love a wild harvest and here you'll get a chance to pick some to take home. (this is what Sue supplies to top restaurants and chefs in Sydney).

Back to our beach houses in Emu Bay for a bit of relaxation. We'll then gather for supper on the big wide deck of Fishers Beach House...if the cycles of the moon are with us and the night is calm, it will be a beautiful night.

Day 3 – Wednesday 17th November

Breakfast at your beach house.

8.30 am depart for wildlife and food trail day

We meet one of our favourite locals – olive grower Dan Pattingale who embodies that KI pioneering spirit. and produces some beautiful olive oil.

We head to Flinders Chase National Park for a coffee and then drive through bushland to incredible Admirals Arch and a walk to view the NZ fur seals – it's the most wonderful feeling to have the wind in your hair and be so close to wild beautiful animals – this was a highlight of the 2005 safari. We then drive to Remarkable Rocks – one of the most beautiful wild locations in Australia...great photo opportunity.

We head back home for a late lunch that includes some of the beautifully sweet local marron on the barbie. Then a well earned siesta, walk along the beach or simply relaxing on your deck drinking in the view. (4pm till 7pm is all yours)

7.30/8 pm Dinner tonight is at Beaches – one of our beach-houses. Sue will prepare a delicious meal using South Rock KI lamb accompanied by wine from Cape D'Estang Wines - they make only red wine including a fabulous sparkling red. Tonight's dinner guest is local farmer Andy Gillfillian who is responsible for that exceptional lamb.

Day 4 – Thursday 18th November

Breakfast at your beach house.

10am departure for a visit to the island's sheep cheese making enterprise Island Pure to see sheep milking and taste some of their beautiful products and meet inspiring owner Susan Berlin.

Visit Peter Davis honey shed to taste his organic Ligurian bee honey and buy some of the lovely beeswax candles. Stretch your legs with a walk around Kingscote township, down to the jetty and visiting one of the local art galleries.

We drive to the pretty part of the island where Sue lives, stopping on the way to sample and learn about the local oysters (this is weather dependant). When we arrive at Sue's you have the option of being driven or walking along the dirt road to the house she built. Lunch is on her deck with the best views of the cliff-tops (wear walking shoes) and you'll meet some of our favourite islanders there too.

After lunch we'll head to Penneshaw (where we come in on the boat) visit the local gallery at Baudin Beach..or give you time to disappear along the beach for a walk. We'll have a seafood degustation (including local abalone) at Sunset Wines - one of the best places to catch a perfect sunset.

Day 5 – Friday 19th November

Breakfast at your beach house. Pick up and depart for ferry back to the mainland. We stop on the way back to Adelaide for lunch in McLaren Vale with our friends at the acclaimed Primo Estate, renowned for its exceptional Joseph olive oil and masterful wines...the Cellar door is a beautiful modern architectural masterpiece – Maeve's new show Italian Food Safari filmed there and were hugely impressed – so good its in the first episode!. We try and keep lunch on the lighter side as dinner tonight is a showstopper (however, try saying that to an Italian!)

Check into the Medina Grand Treasury (TBC), one of the lovely hotels of Adelaide, well situated on King William Street, right near the Central Markets.

7.30 Final night dinner at Urban – the wonderful food of Bethany Finn (formerly of the Grange in Adelaide) with matched wines. This is one of the most incredible meals you'll eat...elegant, perfectly executed and so yummy...all with perfectly matched wines.

Day 6 – Saturday 20th November

Breakfast followed by a fabulous tour of Adelaide Central Markets, which is just a walk across the road from the hotel. (You may want to check out and leave luggage with them before going to the markets – or arrange late checkout yourself with the hotel.) We go early before the rush...meet some of the top local providores and buy up to take home.

We finish the tour at 10.30 – you can have a coffee, go shopping, stay in Adelaide to explore for the weekend, go on the Barossa and Clare Valleys or race home with all your goodies.
